Through The Okanagan Valley

Canada is a country of contrasts. In no two provinces are the contrasts so great as between British Columbia and Alberta. Alberta is almost that sparsely treed, and with vast areas of arable land. British Columbia on the other hand, is the most mountainous and heavily treed. The area of British Columbia arable land is small in comparison with the extent of the province.

Marking the division between the two provinces tower the mighty Rockies forming the dividing line and determining to a large extent the climate and characteristics of these two provinces.

The fact that the characteristics of British Columbia are so greatly different from those of the prairie is of great advantage to both, and will be of still greater advantage to both when both have developed their potentialities further.

British Columbia's main exports are fruit, lumber and fish, while Alberta's are wheat, oil, grain, livestock and coal.

It was a happy thought that animated the U. C. Convention when they, through their president, Mr. L. J. Hall of the Vernon News, invited their Alberta brethren to meet with them in John Canyon in Vernon, one of the principal towns of the district.

To a great extent the newspaper men act as representatives of their communities. They are in close touch with most of the people of their districts who they serve, and can do much to avoid needless misunderstandings if they so exert themselves.

The settlers of John Canyon, who in last issue. The people of the Okanagan exerted themselves to the utmost to make the visiting newspapermen, both from Alberta and from other points of British Columbia, a royal time and to show them in such of their estates as they could in the limited time at their disposal.

It is much easier to see B. C. farms than to see Alberta farms. Most of them are from five to ten acres in extent, and the country and the town are part of each other. In fact, an Okanagan town and its tributary farms do not occupy much more ground than was comprised within the subdivision limits of some of our At home farms in the days of the real estate boom.

The fruit lands are situated mainly on the lower slopes of the mountains. During the present visit to the Okanagan the fruit season was in full swing. Apple, cherry, and peach trees were loaded down with fruit, many fields were ripe with tomatoes, canteloupes and the other varieties of fruit for which the Okanagan is famous.

Vernon is a modern city of about four thousand inhabitants, two and a half miles from Okanagan Lake. It is one of the most beautiful cities in the west, and it is on every side as rich as arable ground.

Attention is an absolute necessity. The water is taken from the mountain creeks that run down the mountain sides. It is very carefully hoarded, being carried in wooden or cement flumes and siphoned across the meadows. The water works here is from $7 to $11 per acre. Think of this, in fairness of the western irrigation block, when not abundant water for five feet over.

Friday afternoon was spent joyfully at the country club near Vernon. The whole of Saturday was spent in a sail down the beautiful Okanagan Lake on "S. S. Okanagan" kindly placed at the disposal of the newspapermen by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The first part of call was at Kelowna, where the party disembarked and (Continued on another page)

Wheat Threshing Has Commenced

With continued good weather cutting of all grades has progressed rapidly during the past week, and many farmers have entirely completed cutting. By the end of this week it is expected that all cutting will be completed with the exception of late and green feed.

Yield Higher Than Expected—One satisfactory feature is that throughout the district farmers are going to have a considerably larger yield than they expected previous to cutting, and the grain will all be of the best quality.

Many dry land wheat crops "wound" elsewhere are expected to realize between twenty and thirty bushels to the acre. Irrigated crops will realize very heavy yields, the season having been altogether favorable.

As there is more land in crop than ever before, and the loss from hail and other causes has been negligible, the 1922 crop will give a much better total yield than for several years past, despite the shortage of moisture during part of the growing season.

Most of the threshing machines are starting work this week. Grain prices are still unsatisfactory. This is the most unsatisfactory feature of present conditions.

Travelers from various parts of the province who have visited here recently by report that Strathmore district is among the best in Alberta this year in respect to both dry and irrigated lands.

Threshing commenced in the Strand and district last week. Jens Rasmussen closed to Standard threshing wheel on dry land 16 bushels to the acre. In the Cranberry district M. F. Hansen has a field of irrigated wheat which he figures will make 50 bushels per acre. Tricked wheat in Cranberry is all cut but a few late ones are still to be cut.

HERVEY NEWS

A surveying crew have been working on the new proposed irrigation scheme which will run through several dry ranches if carried out as proposed.

Mr. Reginald Ticknor and wife, of Washington, D. C., who were enroute by auto (The Dixie Flyer) to Strathmore Alta., to visit his sister, Mrs. P. J. Lowry, met with an accident with his car, which laid him up for a week in Chicago, has had to postpone his trip on account of lack of time, and is returning to Washington by way of Toledo Ohio, Ann Arbor, Mich., Detroit and other western points.

Some lively stepping around on Monday last when a four horse team of spirited mares hitched to a binder on the Patterson ranch, stepped down the road for a mile and a half to the same time that "Dan Patch" made one mile and landed up against a telephone pole along Haines road. Little damage was reported, but the horses were gathered up in several different localities. The drivers had been found shortly after the team got started and a mile away the drivers said he had some ride.

Mr. Fred Thomas has taken a position at the Strathmore Farming school.

J. P. Lowry is hoping around from being thrown from a tractor horse on Thursday last.

Word received from J. White to the effect that he is now in Idaho looking for a location.

Threshing is now on also the top wheat. Where is Mr. Farmer called to set off at with $3.50 to $4.00 for later and life for threshing.

Mr. Jennie Pugh is returning to her school at Chumby.

Mr. Edgar Ash is down from his home to run the Chumby threshing out fit.

Jim C. Nelson brought in several loads of wheat to Carseland last week ending at 14. in the bushels.

Provincial News

A heavy enrolment for the normal school of the province is taking place according to Hon. Perrin Baker, minister of education. The enrolment has reached 151 thus far divided as follows: Edmonton 159, Calgary 218, Camrose 204. No permits will be issued this year, states Mr. Baker, save in cases where it is absolutely imperative.

Revenue from theater tax in the year, indicates a falling off in attendance. A total of 94 picture shows are licensed this year in comparison to 111 last year.

First samples of wheat being received at the Dominion Government elevator at Calgary are grades No. 1 hard and No. 1 Northern. Several crops of wheat have already been marketed.

Prospects for less unemployment during the coming fall and winter are much brighter than for some time. With the settlement of the coal strike will come approximately 100 per cent. employment in the mines, which will take care of about 100,000 men each year and above the seasonal employment, in view of the anti-trust "soft" law, a good deal of labor is being absorbed by the harvest field this year. The commencement of the oil industry of the Imperial Oil Co. at Calgary, will absorb a large number of men.

Under the prairie fire ordinance a fire district has been created in the province, as follows: North Saskatchewan river. Interests the fourth meridian, thence up stream to Edmonton, thence south along the C. P. R. to Calgary and Macleod, thence south between 25 and 26 to the International Boundary. Regulations controlling the starting of fire in this fire area have been issued, requiring permits to be obtained to start fires to be better than expected.

Wheat cutting will soon be completed in this district and crops are going to be better than expected.

David Smith has purchased a new Rumely separator and intends to do a streak of threshing with it.

In the Cheadle district threshing will be in full swing by the end of the week. Cheadle will be a happy town welcoming the grain harvest.

Mr. Olsen has returned to Cheadle after a month's stay at Carseland, where he was relieving the section foreman.

The new school teacher seems to be liked by the Cheadle school district in general.

Dick Coagrove will be a visitor in the Cheadle district in the near future gathering up bucking horses for the coming stampede on September 15th, one mile west of Calgary. We all wish him success in his business.

A large majority of the Cheadle cowboys expect to attend the big stampede of September 15. Cheadle has welcomed a new cowboy in the district.

Rockyford Wins Baseball Championship

Fighting at a distance of almost thirty miles from home, at Chids, on Labor Day, Rockyford won the inter-municipal baseball championship of the province over Carstairs by a 7-2 score. Rockyford came away strong in the last three innings, scoring three in the seventh on an opening given by an error by Carstairs second baseman. In the next two innings they brought up the score by two more while Carstairs failed to connect.

Over two thousand fans attended, and the game was well worth the attendance first-class ball being played throughout, especially by the Rockyford boys, who showed great confidence, and worked like veterans.

Brown pitched for Rockyford, and held the Carstairs run down to four hits. He got good support all the way through.

Rockyford team was as follows: P. Smith 1; K. Smith 2; M. Smith 3; B. Smith 4; D. Smith 5; W. Smith 6; K. Smith 7; D. Smith 8; W. Smith 9.

Mr. F. C. Chalkley and children of Calgary are spending the weekend with his sister, Mrs. C. Chalkley.

Mr. Geo. Moore of Calgary is spending the weekend and holiday at Craig.

Wendell, McLean and party of Chids spent a couple of days at John McLean's duck shooting.

Master Leonard Edwards who had his shoulder broke a while ago, has to aim out of the plaster cast and is getting along fine.

Mr. Peter Erickson is up from the States, spent a couple of days in the district after his farming interests in the States.

Mr. Olsen has returned to Cheadle after a month's stay at Carseland, where he was relieving the section foreman.

BANFF, nestling down among the mountains, ever beautiful and always interesting, was more than ever so when Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Byng spent a few days here recently, while on their way west over the C. P. R. to the Pacific Coast. It was natural that they should plan to stop over for a quiet rest at this most delightful of Canadian mountain resorts where the glories of the Rockies are seen at their best. The occasion of the Vice-Regal visit was made more notable by the arrival in Banff of the Great White Chief, and to hold their annual pony races and other sports.

Their arrival in Banff was a dramatic affair. In all the glories of ceremonial palat and feathers, they came in the motorcade of Banff Springs Hotel, and to the new stone bridge that crosses the Bow River, and then met the Governor, who relieved them.

Late in the day exciting pony races were held, and archery and other feats of contests of skill and strength were held. Little stands of rough boards accommodated a crowd of on-lookers which included Lord and Lady Byng, a large number of tourists and all the many points of interest were visited.

You Wouldn't Buy From A Mail Order House

If you didn't get the catalogue. Naturally you couldn't. If your local merchants all took the trouble to advertise the quality and prices of their goods each week in the Standard, all things being equal, you would buy at home.

Strathmore merchants and dealers will sell you anything you can buy in a mail order house. Your home dealer will serve both his interests and yours by telling you about his goods weekly through the columns of the Standard.

"Your farm must be quite a big one," I observed, rather ashamed of my petulance.

"Well," he drawled, "we can see the arbutus here, without a telescope, and the creek don't need a wire line machine to call the men to dinner. But I've got nine quarter sections—that's fourteen hundred and forty acres. Never showed you any pictures of it, did I?" And he took some snapshots from an inner pocket.

When I had admired them sufficiently he put them back with seemingly unnecessary care, looked at his watch, cleared his throat, and then went on with his oration.

"You'd like that part of the country, Miss Elliot. The first time I seen you I says to myself, 'There's a girl that would like things on a big estate.' Don't know what gave me the notion, but I got it and it stuck right to me. Of course it's a bit better in the winter sometimes, when you have nobody to talk to but your own housekeeper and her maid, but I don't much mind English. And I haven't even got a pipe. Mother made me smoke, but I was a little bit too young to smoke until I was twenty-one, and ever since I've been too busy to learn. It is like times like that that a man wants a wife."

Here he took off his hat, and stood with it in his hand as he finished, as if to me was an indication of his innate gentleness.

"I haven't got much in the way of education or polish," he continued, "but Mother always said that a poor man makes a good husband. I've done my best to be a good man, and I'll do my best to make a good husband. I was stumped, and I suppose I showed it."

"I ain't asking you to do anything in a hurry," he added. "You don't know much about me, but I'll talk to Mr. Arnold and he will be a good bank and to the people at Pika, and they'll tell you the whole of the word is as good as his bond."

"And I don't want you to think that I'm just looking for a housekeeper that can talk good English. I used to think that now at Pika, and they'll tell you the whole of the word is as good as his bond."

No Appetite

Nervous exhaustion leads to disordered food. The nerves of the stomach are weak, digestion fails, and you become generally upset and out of sorts.

The secret of complete restoration is in getting the nervous system fully built up.

Mr. R. Cheney, 208 Richmond St., Chatham, Ont., writes:

"I was troubled with indigestion, which caused me many sleepless nights. I would lie in bed at dinner or supper, and would get on relief for two or three hours. For years I had been troubled with Stomach Nerve Weakness, as I do not eat anything else. I did not know what to do, as I had tried to many different remedies, as well as doctors' medicine, without getting any relief. Finally I got some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which is the second best food I had ever used. I continued the treatment until I am now fully restored, and have received my regular diet. My husband has also taken Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with splendid results, so we are glad to recommend it to others."

Puzzle Tells About the Yaks.

LIKE the Box, another favorite A-B book animal is the Yak. Almost always the "Y" you see a large picture of a Yak, and they are usually painted white or gray, which anyone who knows anything about all about Yaks must know.

In America you will never see any Yaks; but on the other hand if you should travel in Asia, and especially in Central Asia, you would soon become accustomed to them, and you would very quickly find that instead of being a pale color they are very dark; in fact, they are brownish-black with rust-colored legs.

If you can picture to yourself an ox-like animal which, after it had been created and finally placed on its four feet, had then had a long fringe of hair that dragged nearly to the ground drawn completely around it, you may have some idea of the Yak; even though its tail spreads into a bushy tuft, its head and back are thickly covered and are almost smooth.

It looks gentle enough, I suppose, because furry creatures, as a rule, don't seem like dangerous fighters; but heaven help the hunter who has been so fortunate enough to only wound and not kill a Yak. It will turn and furious charge the enemy and with the help of its long sharp horns, soon put an end of him.

But there are far more Humans who make a friend of another of the Yaks than those who hunt and kill it; for, with a little patience and kindness it can be tamed and trained as easily as can a horse or an ox. People living in the eastern countries as the Yaks have found this out and have used their knowledge to their profit; for they not only ride it but use it as a beast of burden.

Just as we use the horse and ox. Also, people milk it just as we milk the cow.

Puzzle learned all this once upon a time when he was wandering around the mountains of Tibet, and after he reached home he told the other three throwers about all everything concerning Yaks. He also told them that Yaks, when wild, live up in the cold high hills.

"But I shouldn't think that they would find enough food there," exclaimed the Larkins, who talk more of eating, perhaps, than anything else in life except sleeping.

"Oh," Puzzle answered, "I went up to the highlands, too, and I especially noticed my amount of why, long ago, which is just what Yaks like. He also noticed that they are very lazy animals."

"How?" Larkins asked, wringing up in sudden interest.

Puzzle grinned. He couldn't help it, for he had just been so very interested simply because he, too, is so lazy.

"They are all especially keen about resting people or things that remind us of ourselves, and lazy, fat little Larkins is just the same as the rest of us."

"They are lazy in this way," replied Puzzle. "Early in the morning an ox goes to his work, and he has to work much as his tumblers can hold and then they drop down on the ground and spend all the rest of the day thinking about it and chewing the cud. They are like cows in this respect. Well, boys, he cried, springing up suddenly, they are as good as dead."

They all jumped up from the red room and raced as fast as they could toward the little Pond.

There was a lot more, but I don't care to write it.

What could I do but tell the man that I was a mathematician, and told it to him in the kindest possible way, and he was so kind to tell it very well, and I was really sorry to say goodbye to him when he left that night for his fourteen hundred and forty acres of farm and his dog. His dog was a very good dog, and I let him know if I ever needed a dog, I would let him know.

Mr. Bingham arrived this morning. He has been in the house for only a few minutes but he has made a very favourable impression on me, and I have made an equally favourable one on him. Engines and Cars await Grain Rush

Preparations upon a monumental scale for the marketward movement of Western Canada's 1922 grain crop have been made by the Canadian National Railways. Hundreds of steam locomotives and tens of thousands of freight cars have been put through the railway's shops at Winnipeg and are at and ready for the greatest traction effort of the year—and of many years.

This mobilization of equipment has been in progress since the beginning of the year, with the result that Canadian National Railways are now fully prepared, waiting and even eager to get to the business of hauling grain. If all the engines ready for service were placed end to end, they would stretch out for a distance of more than ten miles, while if all the cars prepared since the first of the year for the movement of grain were placed end to end, they would stretch out approximately 250 miles.

The history of the preparatory work with the desire on the part of the management to ease the unemployment situation last winter, and at the same time accomplish some useful purpose. The management conceived the idea of putting into the maximum of efficiency all of the order equipment on western lines. Full staffs of men were set to work in the two great shops and yards, and hauling locomotives and freight cars loaded in for treatment.

Thirty Years' Successful Farming

Remarkable Achievement Of a Pioneer Manitoba Farmer

Built Railways During War

General John Stewart Worked With Rapidity that Astounded Authorities

"I met my friend General John W. Stewart, a few days ago, on his return from an expedition to the Gold Coast," says Mr. T. P. O'Connor, in the London Sunday Times. The visit was occasioned by the big contract he is carrying out for building a proper harbor on the coast—a harbor that will revolutionize all the conditions in that very promising colony.

"I was surprised to hear that my friend—who is usually so reticent and so unimpassive as to have got the name of 'frozen-faced' in Canada, where he has done some hard work—had taken some of his native friends to the meetings of the native leaders.

"Jack Stewart," as he is known to his friends, is one of the quiet, modest and almost self-effacing men who have done big things in the Empire. Some forty years ago he left his native Aspy—a little town in Saskatchewan, and landed in New Brunswick with ten shillings in his pocket—ten shillings borrowed from his mother—who with her husband, lived on a small farm in Aspy; today Jack Stewart is a millionaire. He had to start as a farm hand with a country man on a Quebec farm; then he got on to the railway, and employing the money he had earned at the Scotch college, was soon seeking the possibilities of railway contracting. He started by subcontracting for three miles on a railway which a big contracting firm were then building in Montana; made a good bit of money on this, then took a second contract for ten miles; and then showed himself such a genius that he was taken into the big firm; and from that point he has gone on building big railways, tunnels, docks and the rest.

"I spent two years in trying to get Downing to take me into the big firm during the worst moments of the Great War, this man of genius, and failed. One morning I was rung up by Mr. Lloyd George—not yet Premier—and asked to read Stewart's letter; but Stewart had sailed that morning for Canada. I wrote Mr. Lloyd George came to the War Office he summoned Jack Stewart from the office of Canada. Jack set to work at once on the front; ran up to work out of chaos; and ran up railway with a rapidity that astounded the authorities.

Soon there was a crisis; a general wanted a few miles of line and wanted the work done in a hurry. Stewart was asked what time he would take to build them, and Stewart's answer was a week; he finished in four days and a half.

Stewart made no complaint when the list of honors appeared times after time without his name; the only obstacle I can imagine in his way was the resolution passed by the Canadian Parliament against the acceptance of any honors by Canadians. And this was held to apply to Jack. And this is now one of the largest landholders in the Empire. Stewart, his native Aspy is a part—for he has never lost his love of his native land; he is a Highlander who has been in Canada and has subscribed for years to every fund for the encouragement of the Celtic language of his people; and perhaps one day aspires to be a member in a Scottish Parliament, if he is a Scotch House Ruler. If he had been Prime Minister he would have found a seat in the British House of Peers, the only recognition adequate to his services to the Empire in his worst hour of peril."

German Nature Not Changed
Order Issued By Government Shows Signs Old Avarice
To those unsophisticated souls who appear to think that it can change a people's characteristics by changing their labels, an order just issued by the German Republic Government should bring enlightenment. By this order provincial newspapers throughout Prussia, which heretofore have been serving as official organs for local propaganda, are to conform in their editorial attitude to the demands of the German republic or forgo their revenues from official advertising. Thus the German republic is administered the same old dose of cant, the only change being that it is given under different conditions. It is the story of Russia, of Ireland, of the French Revolution, told over again.

The moral is plain. It is that human nature cannot be changed overnight, that it is the spirit, not the form, that counts. It is the spirit, not the form, that counts. It is the spirit, not the form, that counts. It is the spirit, not the form, that counts.

The Strike Problem

Richard Spillane, in the Philadelphia Public Ledger

Whether employer or employed ain most in the horrors visited upon the public in the form of strikes is not the question. Strikes are trouble. They will continue until their cause is removed. How to do that is a problem. But the problem, however difficult, is not insoluble. A little the genius that transformed the world from agrarianism to industrialism, mixed with common sense and the Golden Rule, surely would find the way.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to her children. Cholera infantum, diarrhea, dysentery and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a protracted life is lost in a few hours illness. The mother who keeps baby on the Baby's Own Tablets in the house finds that the medicine prevents stomach and bowel troubles or if the trouble comes, it is easily cured. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cotton Base For Tower

Mixed With Sand It Makes a Solid Foundation
Where buildings are to be erected on sandy soil cotton is commonly employed as a foundation. The first application of the material to this purpose was made when the ancient light at Leasow, England, between the Mersey and the Mersey was built. Great difficulties had been encountered in the search for a solid base and at last the wreck of a cotton ship offered an inspiration to the builders. Some of the cotton which had been washed there was mixed with sand, and on this a massive stone tower was erected so firmly that it was found to stand the fury of the mightiest tempest.

It Bids Pain Begone—When neuralgia strikes the nerves or lumbago cripples the back is the time to test the virtues of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Rubbed in it will still the pain and produce a sensation of heat and relief. A trial of it will establish faith in it.

The Inca, warriors, prior to the Spanish conquest, used to decorate the saddles of their horses with the heads of their enemies killed in battle. To lessen the weight of these ghastly relics the warriors, by a secret process, removed all the bones and embalmed the head.

She Has Raised A Family Of Ten

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY NEVER FAILS HER

Mrs. Ervin W. Stiller, East Waterloo, N.Y., writes: "I have raised a family of ten children and have all used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for summer complaint, and it has never failed me."

Four years ago, when the children were about, some of my neighbors called in the doctor, but could get no relief. I was about to give up, and after taking it for two or three days, I was cured. I have since used it for my children at the same time when they were passing blood, and a few days later they were well."

If you want to be on the safe side for Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and insist on getting what you ask for. There are many imitations on the market, so be sure and get the original "Dr. Fowler's." Price, 50¢ a bottle; put up by Dr. T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Dainty and Comfortable Are The New Summer Frocks

Here is shown a very simple little frock for afternoon wear which is very dainty and cool looking. It is of white crepe de chine embroidered in white glass beads in a very simple design, which does not make the dress too heavy as is often the case with beaded gowns.

A Gloomy Forecast

Geologist Expects Destruction in Many Continents

Within 29 days Southern Europe, Northern Africa and the whole of Asia will be destroyed by earthquakes, and the residents of these continents will be killed.

This is the latest prediction of Dr. M. A. Nobles, a physician and geologist, who has studied volcanic disturbances since his graduation from Syracuse University in 1881. The western section of the United States being the Rocky Mountains is also on Dr. Nobles' schedule to disappear. Canada is to remain on the map.

The eruption that will wipe out Europe will occur near Budapest, where there are at present 70 volcanoes, Dr. Nobles said.

Home Comforts

A Kansas farmer advertises in The Home Broadener as follows: "I want a man to work on my farm. I don't care dancing lessons, I have no money. I can't care plank steak three times a day. I do give three square meals, a real bed, fair wages. If any man who knows a cow from a talking machine, can hear an alarm clock, and get up at 5 o'clock wants a job, I will agree not to treat him like one of the family, but a darn sight better. Apply at the Steve Wiggins Place, Intervale Road."

Only the unfortunates endure the agony of corns. The knowing ones apply Holloway's Corn Remover and get relief.

Religious Freedom Under Bolshevism

The baptizing of children will not be allowed in Russia in the future. The Supreme Council of the Church, which is under Soviet control, is establishing a new church law dealing with baptism. In this the age of baptism is fixed at 13, and the consent of the person concerned must be obtained in writing and filed with the authorities.

Get Even With Him

Lads!—And what would you do with him after I gave it to you? "Yump—Oh! a new coat, lady, an' supper at a night's lodgin'."

Lads!—All right, then, I'll give you a quarter and you can support yourself for the rest of your life.

Nations heed the will that the stoutest men are often the brainiest, and by way of demonstrating this belief he nearly always selected small men for the biggest tasks.

Story of Heroism

Officer Gave His Life That Seamen Might Live

A thrilling story of heroism at sea was unfolded in Montreal when the master of the steamer Cordoba brought his ship into port and reported the loss of his second officer, Angus Glasgow.

The officer was washed into the sea during a gale that struck the ship on August 4. Although unable to swim, he refused help and ordered the remaining boat to save two of the steamer's sailors who were also thrown into the sea. Both lives were saved while the second officer was drowned in full sight of the ship.

Rev. Canon Gale will conduct the service in St. Michael's Church next Sunday to Rev. A. B. Carter's absence.

Strathmore U-Girls Club are giving a special harvest dance in the Memorial Hall on September 14th. Everyone is invited details will be found under Coming Events and Hobbies.

Mr. W. G. Way, secretary of M. H. Bow Valley, returned during the week from an extended visit to Ontario and to his parents' home at Carleton Place, Ontario. Mr. Way states that conditions in Ontario are very good this year. Good crops are being harvested. While fruit yield is heavy, and business generally is picking up. On returning to Strathmore, Mr. Way is more than ever impressed with the dryness of irrigation, and notes the contrast between conditions east of Glendon and those prevailing in this district, the exceptions in the harvest of the eastern district being the irrigated crops at Brooks and Tilly. Mr. Way has irrigated every year for several years past, and he has an exceptionally fine crop on his farm this year.

Mr. John Imrie, editor of the Edmonton Journal, is at present on a tour of the irrigation districts in Southern Alberta, and visited Strathmore on Saturday.

The telephone contractor and his gang have been busy during the past week erecting the poles etc., for the new rural lines.

An enjoyable dance was held in the Memorial Hall on the evening of last Monday. Music was supplied by the orchestra, and supper served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the G. W. V. A. The attendance was not as large as at some former dances held under the auspices of the G. W. V. A. but expenses were met, and an enjoyable time was spent.

Though we have a number of readers in Belcher district we are not yet represented by a correspondent, and we would be pleased to hear from any of our subscribers in or near Belcher who would undertake the duties of correspondent, as we wish to thus monthly serve each part of the district in which we circulate.

It cost the town of Brooks only $150 this year to have irrigation water supplied to the town throughout the whole of the season. Strathmore has the opportunity of securing a similar water service if they would take advantage of it.

The cutting and skating project is going ahead strongly. The hockey and skating boys are already working on their part of the ice set aside for the project, and the cutters are having considerable success in skimming up memberships for the forthcoming season.

Rev. A. B. Carter has accepted a call to St. Michael's and all his services, is being married today to Miss Cartwright, of Calgary. The ladies of the congregation are arranging a reception to him upon his return, details of which will be found under the "Coming Events" heading.

Don't forget that the Strathmore School Play will be held on Tuesday, September 25. The school party, getting are Absentee, Donna Vale, Corbitt, Harvey, Nanaia, Orange Valley, Strathmore and Chumey. The children have some fine exhibits this year, and parents and others should do their best to secure a good attendance at the sale and show, encourage the children. Though not on the actual programme, it is expected that some children's sports will take place during the judging, which will be conducted by officials of the Department of Agriculture.

A severe hail storm in the Carlton district last week destroyed the crops of a number of the wheat settlers in the Pope Lease, including those of several local boys.

The season for duck shooting opened on September 1st, and since that time many hunters have been around the ditches and lakes, with varied results. Many hunters have been down from Calgary especially on the 1st and on Labor Day.

After October 1st it will be possible to send articles up to the value of $100 through the mail C. O. D.

Mr. C. S. B. Laid, assistant at the Strathmore Branch of the Union Bank is one of the 1922 Honor graduates in the Associate Course conducted by the bank, and in recognition of this fact a photograph of him appears in the September issue in the Union Bank of Canada Monthly.

Loyalty Basis of Civilization

—O—OWES MORAL AND LEGAL OBLIGATION TO HIS GOVERNMENT

Same in community life

People Have Duty To Their Town Which It No Less Binds Because It Is Not Fixed By Law

(Copyrighted.)

Loyalty is the foundation upon which the whole structure of civilization rests. Loyalty to one's country, and to one's state, loyalty to one's city, loyalty to one's business associates. Loyalty to one's friends. Loyalty is essential to the ordinary progress of the world. Without it there can be no civilization. There would be no stable government in the world if it not for the loyalty of the people to their government. There would be no successful business enterprises on the face of the globe were it not for the loyalty of the men and women who are connected with it. No church could exist for a month were it not for the loyalty of its members. The strength of the home would be a myth were it not for the loyalty of the members of the family group.

The loyalty of a people to its government is based partly upon sentiment and partly upon the recognition of the fact that the people owe to its government. A people that has the benefit of good government owes a duty to that government. Those who do not recognize this duty and perform it voluntarily are compelled by law to do so. The man or woman who is protected by the government in his life and happiness must contribute in money and service to the support of the government which preserves law and order and which protects his life and property. The government has the right to call upon its citizens to take up arms in its defense.

Loyalty Moral Obligation

In government affairs these things are regulated by law, and the man who neglects the benefit of the government is required to fulfill the obligation which that entails him in the ordinary affairs of his life. Loyalty is a moral rather than a legal obligation. There is no law which prevents a man from stealing from his employer or his business associates, but there is no law that requires him to be loyal to them. The loyalty of a business institution, however, depends more on the loyalty of its employees than on the loyalty of its owners. The loyalty of its employees is the loyalty which prevents them from stealing from the company. Likewise the stability of a business institution depends upon the loyalty of its people upon whom the business institution is required to fulfill their obligation to the government.

It is equally true that the property and growth of every individual community is dependent upon the loyalty of the people who live in it. Every citizen owes an obligation to his community, and the obligation is as great as well as a legal one. The good citizen pays his taxes cheerfully and honestly. He serves on the jury which administers the laws of the community. He fulfills every legal obligation that is laid upon him by his government, but there is a moral obligation which is of still greater importance to the community. This moral obligation consists in his doing everything that is in his power to promote the prosperity and happiness of his community. The man who is enabled to make his living in any community is under a moral obligation to spend his money in such a way as to help his community.

Selling Spoiled Eggs

Successful prosecutions of merchants who have been evading the regulations with respect to sale of eggs sent for consumption have been conducted by the poultry branch of the provincial government. Prosecution was undertaken against the Miller Trading Co. of Vegreville, and after a lengthy hearing, during which contradictory evidence was given by witnesses for the defense, a fine of $50 and costs, the maximum under the act, was imposed by Magistrate MacIntyre. Another charge was laid against Nick Korykuk, who keeps a store at Vegreville. He was fined $5 and costs. The officers of the poultry branch of the department of agriculture are determined to enforce the regulations with respect to marketing of bad eggs, and where necessary, are ready to take action similar to that recorded.

Clean Threshing Machines

Attention of threshermen through clean in the Noxious Weeds Act, which requires them to clean their threshing machines before leaving the farm to go to another. The weed branch of the department of agriculture issues a special appeal to owners and operators of threshing machines to see that their machines are properly cleaned before leaving the farm on which they were operating, and also see that tight bottoms are used on the handle racks, and that these are swept off before moving to another farm. Weeds have come to be a serious menace in many parts of the province, and the department is asked to request their earnest cooperation in the efforts at eradication. Farmers are asked to assist and insist that threshermen clean their machines. It is impossible for the provincial government to send out inspectors to

Summertallow Experiments

Conducted at Glarsheol School of Agriculture, 1922.

The necessity of summertallowing has been very trenchly brought to the notice of everyone interested in agriculture, especially in the true in southern Alberta, within the past few years. This has been due to a gradual growth of conditions which have demonstrated that summertallowing and especially good summertallowing is becoming more and more necessary yearly. With each succeeding year within this period, we have had it proved, time without number, that summertallowing must, if we hope to crown our farming operations with success. If then only remains to be decided which of the many practices we will follow to give the land the preservation best suited to our climatic and soil conditions.

As the climatic conditions vary, so does the use of summertallowing. Particularly in the southern part of the province moisture is the limiting factor in crop production, therefore moisture conservation must of necessity, be given primary consideration in all summertallowing treatments. It is also important that the maximum advantage be derived from the use of the tallowing to the greatest possible degree. Deserving any of these in summertallowing treatment will bring disastrous results.

The Glarsheol School of Agriculture, in addition to its other experimental work, has undertaken, this year, to carry out a comparison of a number of suggested summertallowing methods and substitute the results of a series of experiments. The results of the proposed Summertallowing Treatment are as follows: 1. Double row 2 to 5 seed sunflowers in double rows 2 to 5 seed apart in June, rows north and south.
